DIED SUDDENLY
OF HEART DISEASE.

How frequently does a head line similar to the above greet us in the newspapers. The rush, push and strenuousness of the American people has a strong tendency to lead up to valvular and other affections of the heart, attended by irregular action, palpitation, dizziness, smothered sensations and other distressing symptoms.

Three of the prominent ingredients of which Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is made are recommended by some of the leading writers on Materia Medica for the cure of just such cases. Golden Seal root, for instance, is said by the UNITED STATES DISPENSATORY, a standard authority, "to impart tone and increased power to the heart's action." Numerous other leading authorities represent Golden Seal as an unsurpassed tonic for the muscular system in general, and as the heart is almost wholly composed of muscular tissue, it naturally follows that it must be greatly strengthened by this superb, general tonic. But probably the most important ingredient of "Golden Medical Discovery," so far as its marvelous cures of valvular and other affections of the heart are concerned, is Stone root, or Collinsonia Can., Prof. Wm. Paine, author of Paine's Epitomy of Medicine, says of it:

"I, not long since, had a patient who was so much oppressed with valvular disease of the heart that his friends were obliged to carry him up-stairs. He, however, gradually recovered under the influence of Collinsonin (medicinal principle extracted from Stone root), and is now attending to his business. Heretofore physicians knew of no remedy for the removal of so distressing and dangerous a malady. With [illegible] all guess-work, as afflicted [illegible] [illegible]ory," not only [illegible] affections, but is a [illegible]ent general tonic and invigorator, strengthening the stomach, invigorating the liver, regulating the bowels and curing catarrhal affections in all parts of the system.

Dr. Pierce's Pellets cure Constipation.

WASHING WITHOUT WATER

Is Like Trying to Get Rid of Dandruff Without Herpicide.

Did you ever see any one trying to wash themselves without soap or water?

If you did what would you say of him?

It is every bit as foolish to try to get rid of Dandruff and to prevent Baldness by feeding the germs which cause it, with Cantharides, Vaseline, Glycerine and similar substances which form the principal ingredients of most so-called Hair Vigors.

Newbro's Herpicide is successful because it attacks and kills the parasitic germ which feeds on the hair roots.

It is the original and only genuine scalp germicide manufactured.

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

Murder of a Judge.

Judge George Emory, one of the most prominent lawyers of Seattle, Wash., and for many years a resident of Syracuse, N. Y., who was shot twice by Chester Thompson, the nineteen-year-old son of William Thompson, formerly counsel for the Great Northern Railway and a nephew of Maurice Thompson, the poet and author, at his home Saturday night, died from his injuries yesterday morning.

Young Thompson, who was a student at the University of Washington, was infatuated with Judge Emory's niece, Miss Charlotte Whittlesey, a beautiful [illegible]teen-year-old girl, to whom the [illegible] lad's attentions were very distasteful. It is said that she had asked her [illegible]ncle to forbid the house to her [illegible]itor, who was insanely jealous of her. On Saturday night Thompson telephoned asking if Miss Whittlesey was at home. Judge Emory, who answered the message, replied that she was not, and informed the young man that he would not be welcomed there.

In a few moments the young man, breathless and without hat or coat, rushed up the steps of the Emory home and rang the front door bell.

"I want to see Charlotte," he demanded, as the judge opened the door.

"She is not here, and you cannot see her," said the uncle, extending his arm to bar Thompson's entrance.

Whipping out a revolver without another word Thompson fired point blank at Judge Emory. The first shot struck the judge in the hip, the second pierced his left lung, and the third wounded Mrs. Keith, who was visiting the Emorys. As the judge fell to the floor, Thompson sprang over his body and ran upstairs, calling for Miss Whittlesey, who was not at home.

The desperate young man found Clare and Thomas Emory, the judge's children, three and four years old. Taking them into a bedroom, he pushed the bedstead against the door, and when the police, who were immediately notified, demanded his surrender, he held them at bay for several hours by threatening to kill both children if an attempt was made to capture him. Finally, Thompson's father, a well-known lawyer, arrived and persuaded his son to give himself up.

It is believed that Thompson went upstairs with the determination to kill Miss Whittlesey, who had recently rejected his proposal of marriage. He swears that he meant only to kill himself if she repulsed him again, and he had intended to force her to a final answer that night.

Late Paris Sensation.

Under the interrogative headline, "It It Clara Ward?" the London Observer prints a story of a queer Paris escapade of a woman claiming to be the Princess de Chimay, who with George Ramiades, a retired general in the Greek army, created a sensation among the neighbors in their apartments, on the Rue Bolivar.

Mme. Ramiades, as the woman was known sometime ago, rushed out of the apartment in scanty attire and fled shrieking down stairs. She was followed by Ramiades, who was shouting threats that he would kill her. Neighbors intervened and the woman returned to the apartments. She hastily dressed herself and went out and has never been seen since.

Then Ramiades locked himself in his room, but the police, who had become suspicious, forced an entrance and discovered the old man trying to burn the house down. He had set fire to the furniture and was muttering incantations. He was conveyed to the infirmary and is believed to be crazy. The police found letters in his room which described at great length Clara Ward's life on the Riviera with Rigo,

Niagara Falls Already Ruined.

"Niagara Falls are already ruined," says the eminent hydraulic engineer, Alton D. Adams, in Technical World Magazine for April. "Already enough water rights have been granted by New York state and Canada to divert all the water which now, falling over both the American and the Canadian falls, makes the great cataract one of the natural wonders of the world. If the capitalists and promoters who now hold franchises were all to establish plants, the entire flow of Niagara river would be diverted into underground channels, and the mighty cliffs over which the torrent now pours in resistless grandeur would be left rugged and bald and dry.

Mr. Adams sees small hope in the proposed treaty between the United States and Great Britain. He does not believe that Canada will be a willing party to any treaty which will cut off the great income it enjoys from leasing Niagara power. His plan is to excavate and deepen the channel leading to the American falls, which will otherwise run dry long before the Canadian or Horseshoe falls will be at all affected.

Half The World Wonders

How the other half lives. Those who use Bucklen's Arnica Salve never wonder if it will cure Cuts, Wounds, Burns, Sores and all Skin eruptions; they know it will. Mrs. Grant Shy, 1130 E. Wife-beater Killed by a Mob.

Oliver Bryant, a coal miner of Vanderburg county, Indiana, drank to excess yesterday afternoon, and when he went home he quarreled with his wife and ended by giving her a beating. Neighbors heard the screams of the woman, and a mob was organized Sunday night, and while Bryant was sleeping off the effect of the liquor, they broke into his house, took him out, and beat him so terribly that he died yesterday. Bryant was practically helpless in the hands of the mob, but he was kicked, beaten with clubs, and pounded over the head with the fists of the excited crowd. The mob is said to have been led by A. J. Gleich, a prominent farmer and fruit grower, and he was arrested yesterday, charged with murder. Harry Lionville, a blacksmith, is also undre arrest on a similar charge, and warrants are out for a number of others. The parties under arrest say that they did not intend to kill Bryan, but only wanted to punish him for the brutal assault on his wife.

Snake Held Women Enthralled.

Six women, who sat together on the front porch of the home of Daniel Sharadius, on Dock street, Schuylkill Haven, Pa., declare that they were completely enthralled by a monster copperhead snake, which emerged from under the porch and coiled itself in front of them Saturday. Charles Detweiler, who was passing by, saw the women sitting as if paralyzed with their eyes on the reptile. As he looked on the snake uncoiled and started to glide toward one of the women. Detweiler rushed into the yard and struck the snake with a club, killing it. Three of the women swooned after the danger was over.

SIC SEMPER TYRANNIS
AND VIRGINIA ADVERTISER

TUESDAY EVENING. JULY 10, 1906.

SECRETARY TAFT in his speech at Greensboro, N. C., yesterday took up a work which has wearied others engaged in republican propagandas this side of Mason and Dixon's line. He would rejoice to see a breach in the solid South, and in futile endeavors to get in a wedge has, like those who have preceded him, found himself bombarding a fog bank. Mr. Taft argued earnestly against the country returning a democratic majority to the House of Representatives, and in doing so indirectly expressed the appre hensions of his party. His praise of Theodore Roosevelt was extravagant, no matter what may be placed to his credit during the recent war on trusts and the movement for equitable railroad rates. If the Psesident has played a conspicuous part in these salutary movements he has but done his duty, only this and nothing more. There is no need of lionizing him or the party in power which is merely getting out of the way of a prairie fire of public opinion which has been gaining force for years, fanned as it has been by a democratic minority to whom all the credit is due after all for the fumigation now going on. The secretary expresses what has been a patent fact ever since the birth of the country—that the south abounds in able men who are entitled by their inborn genius and acquired abilites to figure prominently in public affairs. This has ever been recognized and for many years the helm of state was in the hands of such. The present generation is of the same stock which has ever proven themselves worthy sons of illustrious sires. Mr. Taft attributed the present prosperity of the southern country to the high tariff, as have other republicans who have appeared on the stump in the south. This remains to be proven. The prosperity of the south is the fruit of the honest toil of her people, who have worked for all they possess, and their wealth is the outcome of their brawn and brains, and not due to protective tariffs nor republican conditions. They have achieved all this surrounded as they have been for the last two score years by hives of drones in the shape of manumitted blacks which the republican party has vainly endeavored to foist upon the south as citizens. The people, of this section ignoring national issues, in a measure, have kept up a solid South for their own protection, having experienced the evils of republican rule in the Southern States, and have acquired wealth under democratic auspices and under which they intend to remain.

THE MYSTERY of the indifference of the republicans to the Tillman bill which prohibited contribution from corporation to political parties is now made plain. That reliable republican and administration organ, the New York Tribune, read the riddle for the public when it said: "The members of the republican campaign committee assert positively that this will not be a money campaign. There will be no effort to get contributions from corporations, they declare. But this hardly explains the real objection of President Roosevelt, Speaker Cannon, and the silence of Chairman Cortelyou on such an important measure." "The present republican national committee is the same band of sturdy political Puritans," says the New York World, "that managed Mr. Roosevelt's campaign in 1904 They are the same gentlemen who so successfully relieved the policy-holders of three New York insurance companies of about $150,000, to say nothing of the millions that they collect from other corporations. It stands to reason that such a a committee would make 'no effort to get contributions from corporations,' but while the committee's morals are impregnable, how about the corporations? Will not the railroads whose freight rates are to be regulated by the republican party insist on making generous contributions toward the success of that noble organization? Will not the beef trust, which is to be inspected from hour to hour by a republican administration, claim the privilege of helping grease the party of moral ideas to victory again? And as for the national banks, they always give quickly in order to give twice. The New York insurance companies cannot contribute. because they are forbidden to do so by State statutes, but all the corporations that persist in throwing money through the transom of a campaign committee room are not organized under the laws of New York. We shall believe that the republican committee or any other political committee will decline corporation money when we see this money actually returned with no string tied to it. It is not worth while for the Tribune or any other honest republican newspaper to seek to make excuses for the indifference of the President and Speaker Cannon to the Tillman bill. The bill was not passed by the House because the Republican National Committee is determined to safegard its sources of 'fat' and the President and Speaker are guided by the committee's counsel. Mr. Roosevelt's and Mr. Cannon cannot shirk their responsibility for the smothering of the measure." The failure of Congress to pass the bill is due largely to the President. If he had worked for that important measure as he did to get $25,000 out of the treasury for his own private use in violation of the "emolument" clause of the constitution, there would have been an end of corruption in federal elections.

EDITORS who are accustomed to estimate value of news must be impressed sometimes with the difficulty of arriving at accurate conclusions. That the shooting of one man by another in New York could hold first place in New York papers for a whole week hardly seems believable, and yet more space has been given to it than to any stage of the Japenese-Russian war for the same length of time. It is true, the story had all the elements of sensationalism, including the human interest phase. The persons involved in the tragedy are more or less prominent, and the man who did the killing elected to do it in the most dramatic manner, but the facts would hardly account for the long run the story has had. The bullet which snuffed out his life also cut the cord which held the veil over the real man, and the papers have been full of startling revelations, with dark hints of worse to come. It is perhaps the mystery element in the killing of Stanford White which appeals so strongly to the popular imagination. As says the American Press:

"It has been a delicate matter to handle. On the other hand, the press, voicing the best sentiment of the com munity, must stand on the side of law and order; on the other hand, if halt printed about the dead man is true, there is euough to arouse in every breast the primitive thirst for vengeance and instinct for self preservation which inheres in human society.

ALMOST the first thing discussed by the Panama Canal Commission on its assemblage on the isthmus was the desirability of reducing the entire Pacific section of the canal to sea level. By this plan the high level would be confined to the artificial lake to be created by the construction of dams at Gatun and Miraflores, which would be approached from the sea level reaches of actual canal on either side by flights of locks. The advocate of the change is that confirmed high levelist, Chief Engineer Stevens himself. The exigency which caused the change was the discovery that the location at La Boca was not satisfactory for a high lift lock. The Philadelphia Record says a great many like exigencies will probably arise in the course of construction, and the plan of the canal as finally completed will doubtless differ materially from the present plans.

Officials of the Navy Department are greatly pleased over the news received early this morning from Manila of the safe arrival of the dry dock Dewey at Olongapo, P. I The expedition started from the plant of the Maryland Steel Company, of Baltimore, at Solomons Island in Chesapeake Bay, on December 28th last. Officials at the Isthmian Canal Commission are discussing the proposal of the German government to widen the Kiel canal. It is said that $50,000,000 will be spent in the work, which will consist of widening the bottom from 60 to 130 feet and the surface from 130 to 350 feet. Germany has been persuaded to make this increase, it is believed, on account of the ever increasing dimensions of war vessels.

Secretary of War Taft returned this morning from Greensboro, North Carolina, where he made a speech last night before the republican State convention and left at noon for Put-in-Bay, Ohio, where he will address the Ohio Bar Association tomorrow.

Word has been received here of the suicide by shooting of Michael J. Curran, a member of the Manila police force. He was formerly quartermaster sergeant of the 6th cavalry. His home was in Cripple Creek, Colorado where his aged mother resides. Word has also been received of the death of Mrs. L. S. D. Rucker, wife of First Lieut. Rucker of the 16th Infantry, at Fort McKinley, of Manila, of malaria. She had been in the islands only five weeks. The remains were shipped to the unfortunate woman's former home at Atlanta, Ga. Her father is Judge Newman, of that city.

Bids were opened at the Navy Department today for armour plate for the first class battleship South Carolina and Michigan, contracts for which are to be awarded by the secretary of the navy in a few days. The Midvale Steel Company, of Philadelphia, which is not in the armour plate trust, and which makes its armour after its own process considerably unbid the Carnegie Steel Company of Pittsburg, the Bethleham Steel Company, of Bethleham, Pa., the other two competitors. For the first time in many years the bids of these two latter concerns were different.

There is no rest for the soldier dead that sleep in the Pasay National Cemetery near Manila. Although it has been a national cemetery for seven years Warner Barnes and Co. have now secured title to the land through the Philippine Supreme Court, and notice has been served on the military to remove their dead. The military authorities have decided to remove the bodies to Fort McKinley, where they will be prepared for shipment to this city and burial in the Arlington National Cemetery.

An attempt is being made by the new combination of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company and the Allan Steamship Company to secure the contract for the conveyance of the mails between the United States and Great Britain The mails are now largely carried by the Cunard and White Star vessels, both British lines. The new combination claims that it will shorten the time in crossing by starting from Halifax instead of New York and by not stopping in Ireland.

Mrs. Nicholas Longworth gives promise of turning Washington society toward tennis as a popular form of amusement among the smart set upon her return from abroad She has just had forwarded to Washington one of the most costly rackets that she could purchase in England, weighing thirteen ounces and specially made for her. It is predicted that among the upper 400, in accordance with this precedence, only tailor-made rackets will be used. Princess Alice had the racket made special on account of not being able to get the desired weight in the stock. The White House lawn tennis courts, which cost several hundred dollars in construction, will be the scene of Mrs. Longworth's debut. With the sledge hammer smashes which her father, the President, gives the ball, it is not likely that Mrs. Longworth will have courage to face him as an antagonist.

Representatives of the Hamburg-American and North German Lloyd steamship lines have left Buda-Pesth after fruitless negotiations with Hungary regarding a new emigrant service to America.

The Interstate Commerce Commission will visit the Pacific coast some time in September. Their visit will have a bearing on the Gillespie-Tillman resolution, directing an inquiry into the relations of railroads to coal and oil properties. More definite plans will be formulated at Thursday's meeting of the commission, when more testimony in the oil cases will be taken, which will probably close the investigation for the summer.

The State of Virginia received yesterday a check from the Secretary of the Treasury in Washington for $25,000, this being Virginia's share in the sale of public lands. The money goes to two institutions of learning—the Virginia Polytechnic, $16,666 67, and the Hampton Normal and Industrial, $8,333.33. The auditor at once drew warrants for these amounts and forwarded them to the schools named.

The authorities of the University of Virginia have recently published a most interesting history of the object and aims of the great seat of learning, together with a statement of its growth, financial, material professional and academic, during the past two years. It is surprising to note that the available income has increased some $35,000 since 1905, and that the number of professors and instructors has been increased from forty-seven to ninety-six, more than double.

Governor Swanson announced yesterday that he would decline to interfere further in the cases of Charles Woodruff and Thomas Jones, under sentence to hang next Friday in Grayson county for murder. They were granted a respite several weeks ago on the plea of newly discovered evidence, but it has not been produced. The victim of the murderers was the father of Thomas Jones, and his worst offense was that he called on the two men to stop a noisy demonstration because of a sick child in the house. The murder seems to have been not only cold-blooded, but without provocation.

SECRETARY TAFT'S SPEECH.

Secretary of War Taft last night, before a meeting of North Carolina republicans, in Greensboro, N. C., on the eve of their State convention, delivered a speech that was generally anticipated as the opening gun of the congressional campaign of 1906. The speech dealt with current political questions, opening with advice to the rank and file of the party in North Carolina and the South particularly, and referred to the achievements of the party in the session of Congress just closed. The opera house was packed to overflowing, and hundreds of persons were turned away because of the limited size of the hall.

Mr. Taft argued against any reason for returning a democratic majority in the next House, saying in conclusion that no party has ever taken more decisive steps to restrain the abuses of irresponsible corporate wealth and power than the republican party, and said that while the administration is straining every nerve to secure compliance with the laws, "the champion of this reform, the man who not by words, but by deed, as President of the United States, has shown his adherence to the principles of equal protection of the laws to all and his courage in resisting all claims of special immunity, whether for organized labor or capital, is to be rebuked and thwarted by the return to Congress of a majority of the opposition. Not while the American people admire courage, consistency, high ideas and practical common sense; not while they believe in energy, honesty and Americanism; no while they take a man for what he is and what he does, rather than for what he says, will this prophecy be justified.

The speaker said that the changed industrial conditions in the South and the elimination of the cry of negro domination has made Maryland a republican state. He repeated what other republican speakers has said, that the South has been kept solid by the specter of negro domination. "Although much of the wealth of the South is dependent upon a protective tariff, its representatives vote for the proposition that a protective tariff is robbery." Mr. Taft said that President Roosevelt has done much to abolish railroad rebating and prosecute Standard Oil, while Mr. Bryan and the democrats were talking vague theories. The secretary thinks that it is impossible to frame a constitutional qualification for suffrage that will not ultimately impartially affect whites and blacks. He said: "No wonder that the South does not enjoy that prominence in high official circles that it is entitled to by its intelligence, population and importance in the country. Its people, by reason of their political course and their deference to the democratic party under all circumstances, are themselves responsible for this condition.

Mr. Taft believes that is it of vital importance both to the country at large and to the South, if a political break can be made in the still solid democratic South, to bring it about. "Nothing," said he, "would work greater advantage to the country at large and to the South in particular, than the breaking up of what is known as the solid South. As long as the republican party in the southern states shall represent little save a factional chase for federal office, we may expect the present political conditions to continue. A policy in the South which excludes from the ballot impartially both the black and white when irrespousible cannot be criticised."

Thaw's Hatred of White.

Mrs. Le Grand Mink yesterday in New York told Assistant District Attorney Garvan of a wild night ride in a cab with Harry Thaw, during which she became convinced that the murderer of Stanford White was drugged or insane. She told of other meetings with Thaw, at which he warned her, as he did on the night of the cab ride, against White. "Harry Thaw's hatred for Stanford White was like that of a maniac. He seemed possessed of a consuming horror of White. It was plainly a mania with him," she said. Mrs. Mink is the mother of Edna McClure, the show-girl friend of the Thaws, whose story to Mr. Garvan Sunday threw much light on the relations that existed among the principals in the roof-garden tragedy.

Rodjestvensky Acquitted.

Kronstadt, Russia, July 10.—After deliberating for ten hours, the court martial which heard the charges against Admiral Rodjestvensky and other officers of the torpedo boat Bedovi in connection with the surrender of the boat to the Japanese in the battle of the Sea of Japan, returned a verdict today acquitting Rodjestvensky, and all but four of the other officers who were brought to trial. Four of the officers of the torpedo boat were found guilty of surrendering the little vessel with premeditation and were condemned to death. The court martial, however, recommended the condemned men to the mercy of the Czar, owing to extenuating circumstances, with the request that the verdict should be commuted to dismissal from the service.

After Admiral Rodjestvensky's flagship had been disabled in the great battle between the Russian and Japanese fleets the Admiral, wounded and incapacitated, was taken aboard the Bedovi. An attempt was made to escape, but when the Bedovi was overhauled it was surrendered without resistance by the officers who did not wish to further endanger the life of their stricken commander in chief. Rodjestvensky was taken to Japan and there nursed back to health before being sent to Russia, after the war was over. Admiral Rodjestvensky at the court martial hearing, offered a plea of guilty, thus presenting himself as a sacrifice for the other officers, as he believed the love of his officers for him had prompted them to surrender the Bedovi, in order to save his life. In a statement to the court he took all the blame upon himself and asked that he alone be punished to the full extent of the law. In addition to Rodjestvensky, members of his staff who had accompanied him on board the Bedovi as well as the chief officers of the torpedo boat, were brought to trial. All the officers except the commander in chief pleaded not guilty. Evidence showed that Rodjesvensky was in such condition that he could not have had anything to do with it, and the verdict of acquittal was rendered despite the plea of guilty.

Crane-Boardman Wedding.

Manchester, Mass., July 10.—United States Senator W. Murray Crane, of Dalton, Mass., junior senator, was married at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon to Miss Josephine Porter Boardman, daughter of Mrs. and Mrs. A. J. Boardman, of Washington. The wedding took place at Windcliffe, the Boardman's summer cottage, a delightful spot on the summit of a high knoll, half a mile from the village centre, and was quiet and without ostentation of any kind. Only members of the family were present, and altogether the guests numbered 17, There was neither bridesmaid nor best man. There were two clergymen, although this was not the original intention. The Rev. Dr. Roland Cotton Smith, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church, in Washington, which the Boardman family attends, was to have performed the ceremony unassisted, but it was discovered that the law of Massachusetts forbid any minister performing a wedding ceremony in this commonwealth, unless he is a resident here. Then the Rev. W. H. Dewart, rector of Christ Church, in Hyde Park, Mass., was secured to assist. The bride's gown was somewhat like that worn by her mother at her wedding forty years ago—of white satin, princess style, with point lace and a long veil of tulle. She wore orange blossoms in her hair, and carried a bouquet of white orchids. Following the wedding breakfast the couple took an afternoon train for Windsor, four miles from Dalton, where the senator has his country home and where the first days of the honeymoon will be spent. Some time during the week the senator plans to take his bride for a tour of Europe, remaining until the fall Most interesting news reach here on the eve of the wedding. Senator Crane is a grandfather, a daughter being born in Dalton last night to W. T. Crane, jr. This is the senator's only grandchild.

Robber had Success in His Novel Angling

Reading, Pa, July, 10.—Perhaps the most peculiar robbery that ever took place in Berkes county was brought to the attention of the town constable of Lorane yesterday. The theft took place at the home of Peter Boone, who is a thrifty farmer, and always carries a considerable amount of money in his clothing.

Boone sleeps in a back room on the second floor of his home. During the hot weather he keeps the windows open. There are several large trees outside of the building. Last night he retired and hung his pantaloons on a clothes tree at the foot of the bed. In the morning he was unable to find his trousers, and was compelled to put on an old pair.

Going into the yard, he found a long pole lying there, at the end of which was fastened a steel hook. On the hook hung his trousers. A wallet containing his money and a gold watch and chain were missing. The burglar had evidently climbed the tree, thrust the pole in through the window, and fished for the trousers until he caught them with the hook. It was then an easy matter for him to get them out of the window and rifle the pockets.

Burning of a Bark.

New York, July 10.—The Clyde line steamer Carib, which arrived this morning from Georgetown, S. C., and Wilmington, N. C., reported a vessel on fire at sea. Captain Maguire said: "On Monday, July 9, at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon, we sighted a vessel on fire bearing east. We bore down on her, and found her to be the bark Margarita, of Montevideo. She was all ablaze aft, the mizzenmast had fallen, and was alongside, and a charred spar was hanging over the quarter. All sail was set on the fore and main masts except the royals, also all the head sails were set. She was hove to and headed pretty well up in the wind, which kept the fire aft. From the mainmast forward everything was untouched by the fire. The Margarita was abandoned. Wind south at the time."

A Dog Tag Found in Can of Pressed Beef.

Chicago, Ill., July 10.—The mysterious dissappearance of a Chicago dog whose license number was 13506 has been explained, but the identity of the owner, despite widespread inquiry by reporters, remains a subject a doubt The dog may have met and inglorious finish in a can of pressed food shipped from Chicago. The can has been found at Roxbury, Va., according to a telegram from that place, and while the dog itself was not identified but all its metallic license tag was intact and bore the words, "No. 13506, Chicago, R F. C." According to municipal records, this number has been worn by more than twenty canines, Some of the dogs are alive and kicking. Others are gone, the neighbors know not where, and it may have been one of these that finally landed down in Virginia,

The Thaw Case.

New York, July 10.—Direct testimony that Harry K. Thaw contemplated the murder of Stanford White and made threats against the life of the architect, may be obtained today, when Mrs. Beatrice Schwartz is examined by Assistant District Attorney Garvan. It was at the table of Mrs. Schwartz that Thaw is said to have drawn a revolver and made a threat against White. Mrs. Schwartz was present when the incident occurred. She knows much of the relations of Thaw and Miss Nesbit while abroad and the district attorney expects to get important evidence against Thaw from Mrs. Schwartz.

Fire on a Steamer.

New York, July 10.—The Wilson line steamer Colorado, which arrived today from Hull and Queenstown, put into the latter port to extinguish a fire in Number 5 hold. On June 19, when about 300 miles west of Scilly Islands, the fire broke out and on finding that it did not promptly yield to the efforts made to extinguish it, Captain Ward headed for Queenstown, where the Colorado arrived on June 21. In the meantime, the fire was under control. The cargo in No. 5 hold was discharged at Queenstown, as it was greatly damaged. The steamer proceeded on June 28.

On one day the steamer logged 591 knots, which is the best days run ever made by this vessel.

Mr. Bryan's Principles Unchanged.

Vienna, July 10.—The Nieue Frie Presse prints an interview with William J. Bryan, who is quoted as saying: "My bimetallism principles are the same as in 1896, but the question is less important now in consequence of the increased gold production and the rise of other questions. New York Stock Market.

New York, July 10. 11 a. m.—The market during the first hour was dull, and sagging. The dulness, although natural for the season of the year, was regarded with dissatisfaction by the room traders, who found it hard to cause enough impression on values to allow them to make fair profits After they had sold stocks early causing declines of 1 to 2 points, moderate buying by themselves caused a general recovery.

Heard His Child's Dying Cry.

Meager reports were received at Lynchburg late yesterday evening of the burning of the home of Fitzhugh Moore, a farmer, residing near Gladys, Campbell county, Sunday night. in which an 8 year old daughter was burned to death and two daughters, aged, respectively, 14 and 12 years, were severely burned. The remainder of the family escaped in their night clothes. Everything they had was destroyed. The family was awakened shortly before midnight by the roar and cracking of the flames, and the father made a desperate effort to rescue all the children. Thinking they were all out, he left the building, when he discovered that his 8 year old daughter was yet on the second floor. Hearing her cries for help, he became frantic, and it was all that the remainder of the family could do to restrain him from rushing into the burning structure, which fell before he could have reached the child. The sorely stricken family is being cared for in the neighborhood by relatives.

Belle of Broadway Sues for a Divorce

Mildred Gibson, who was known as the "handsomest show girl on Broadway," has enlivened gossip along that thoroughfare by getting an order from the Supreme Court for $5,000 counsel fee and $100 a week alimony from Samuel Markowitz, a real estate broker, whom she is suing for divorce. She is saving the money by living in a hotel at Atlantic City, but promises to make Broadway glitter some when she returns to prosecute her action for divorce. This divorce business is nothing new for Markowitz, according to Miss Gibson.

"I am the fifth wife," said Mildred today. "He is 68 years old, and he told me he was only 38. He has a son 38 years old.

"Two of his wives are dead and three are alive. He married me when I was 23 years old, on March 13 last. Guess that age and date were unlucky; but my, we had a swell wedding! All the show girls from Broadway were there. He rented Vienna Hall, and we had a great feast. I was then with the Forty-five Minutes from Broadway, Company.

"His first wife was 18 years old when he married her, 47 years ago. On the day she died he married his second wife. When she died he married a girl named Lena Baer, who had a whole lot of money. When she got a divorce from him he married a girl 20 years old. This girl, who is now Miss Minnie Aggazi, having married again, lived with him nine years and also got a divorce. Then it came my turn.

"I met him on the stage. He was introduced to me behind the scenes, and told me he had all kinds of money, and that he would carry me around like a doll. Instead of that he wanted me to wash dishes. Do I look like a girl who would wash dishes? Well, I guess nix; no, sir."

Young Woman Attempts Suicide.

After seven men had formed a line by joining hands and pulled Anna DeFronc from the waters of the bay, at the foot of Twenty-first street, Brooklyn, yesterday she moaned: "I want to die. If you don't let me die I shall get my father's gun and kill myself." The girl, who is 18 years old, told Dr. Brunne, of the Norwegian Hospital, where she was taken, that she had been deserted by a young man, Francisco Dissio, with whom she eloped a week ago. She lived with her parents, in Jones street, near Sixth avenue, Manhattan, and was employed as a model in a cloak factory. "My father would not let me marry Dissio," she said. "So I eloped with him We lived at 325 Twenty-first street until Sunday, when I got homesick and slipped away to see my parents. When I returned yesterday Dissio had gone away and taken all of our things with him. I knew he had deserted me, and I wanted to die, so I jumped into the water." The police began a search for Dissio, and will arrest him on charge of abduction.

After the Fertilizer Officers.

Edward T. Sanford, assistant United States district attorney of Knoxville, is in Richmond for the purpose of making a motion before Judge Edmund Waddill, in the United States District Court, to transfer S. T. Morgan, president of the Virginia-Carolina Chemical Company; Fortescue Whittle and S. Dabney Crenshaw, officers in the same company, to the middle district of Tennessee for trial under the indictments against them there for the violation of the Sherman anti-trust law. The motion will probably include a request that they give suitable bond for their appearance. The motion will be fought earnestly.

Many Failed.

Central State Hospital.

The special board at Central State Hospital yesterday appointed Samuel J. Hurt, of Petersburg, as clerk and storekeeper at the hospital, to succeed E. Hill Hinton, who resigns after three years of efficient service to enter business. The report of the superintendent, Dr. W. F. Drewry, showed a first-rate condition of the big institution, which now has 1,183 patients, no insane being in jail. A large glass pavilion for one of the consumptive colonies is the latest improvement.

Improved Paving.

The work of laying vitrified brick on Lee street, between King and Prince, is now in progress, and in a short time another square of this modern roadway will have been laid on that thoroughfare.

The work of removing the cobble and rubble stones on Royal street, between King and Prince, is progressing, and within a few weeks' time a vitrified brick roadway will extend around the square bounded by King, Prince, Royal and Fairfax streets.

There is every reason to believe that Fairfax street, between King and Cameron, will soon be laid with vitrified brick. It is said to be the purpose of property-owners in the near future to have similar work done on Cameron street, between Fairfax and Royal. When these two squares shall have been improved vitrified brick will surround the City Hall square.

Old Steamboat Sunk.

While in tow of the tug William H. Yerkes, the old steamboat Samuel J. Pentz filled yesterday evening in the Patapsco river, and was beached off Wagner's Point to save her sinking entirely. Her docks are awash, but the vessel is otherwise in no further danger. The steamer had been berthed at Woodall's shipyard in Baltimore since last fall, and was bought last week by J. Heath, of Washington, who proposed to turn her into a houseboat for use on the Potomac river. The alterations were to have been made at Washington, and she left the Baltimore shipyard yesterday afternoon in tow of the tug for that purpose. After she had passed the Lazaretto it was discovered that she was leaking. Efforts to stop the leak proving unavailing, the boat was beached. The Pentz will be raised as soon as possible and brought to Washington.

Plans for Water Works.

Mr. D. J. Howell, civil and hydraulic engineer, of this city, whose office is at 605 12th street N. W., Washington, D. C., is preparing plans for a dam and water works to be constructed four miles from Charlottesville. The water supply is to be obtained through an 18-inch water pipe; dam to be of concrete 70 feet high, having a top width of 400 feet; reservoir to have a capacity of 600,000,000 gallons.

Plans and specifications are now on file and bids will be opened July 16 by Mr. Howell, for the construction of an earthen dam 375 feet long and 43 feet high with concrete core; at Warrenton; reservoir to have a capacity of 6,000,000 gallons. About $20,000 will be expended.

"The Jolly Ethiopians."

S. H. Dudley and his company of colored players opened a week's engagement at the old fair grounds last night and presented entertaining colored musical farces. The musical numbers of the show are all original and were loudly applauded. The audience was large, including a large number of white people. The "Jolly Ethiopians" will appear every night and there will be matinees Thursday and Saturday, and on Saturday evening a cake walking contest will be held between the local talent of the city for a prize. A separate section has been arranged for white patrons of the show.

Election Expenses

Those who figured in the regular June election for the City Council should not forget that the provisions of the Barksdale law apply to that election as well as to all others, and that therefore, they should file their duly authenticated expense accounts before July 12th.

The statute provides severe penalties for those who ignore it, yet it is always a hard matter to make candidates heed the law.

The expense accounts should be placed in the hands of Clerk Bendheim of the Corporation Court within thirty days after the date of the election.

The mutilated body of eight-year-old Harry Priester, of West Tulsa, Indian Territory, was found in a St. Louis and San Francisco wheat car Sunday night. The boy had been abducted by a tramp last Thursday from his home, and is supposed to have been murdered and his body placed in the car to hide the crime. The body was literally cut to pieces. There is no clew to the murderer. The body was found by the boy's father. It was so badly disfigured that the features were unrecognizable. The only means of identification was the clothing.

One killed, another fatally injured, while three are seriously burned, is the result of a fire in a soda bottling works at Meadville, Pa., yesterday. The fatality and injuries were caused by a bursting soda-charging-tank, falling walls and the flames. The loss is estimated at $7,000. The cause of the fire is not known. Two residences and a barn immediately adjacent to the bottling plant were consumed before the fire was controlled. When the flames reached the charging tank it exploded with a terrific roar and pieces of the heavy metal were thrown with great force in every direction, subjecting the employes who had not made their escape to a veritable charge of shrapnel. Walter Fries, 14 years old, was struck and instantly killed, and several others seriously injured.

A Good Dog.

It is related by Professor Bell that when a friend of his was traveling abroad he one morning took out his purse to see if it contained sufficient change for a day's jaunt he intended making. He departed from his lodgings, leaving a trusted dog behind. When he dined he took out his purse to pay and found he had lost a gold coin from it. On returning home in the evening his servant informed him that the dog seemed very ill, as they could not induce him to eat anything. He went at once to his favorite, and as soon as he entered the room the faithful creature ran to him, deposited the gold coin at his feet and then devoured the food placed for him with great eagerness. The truth was that the gentleman had dropped the coin in the morning. The dog had picked it up and kept it in his mouth, fearing even to eat lest he should lose his master's property before an opportunity was afforded him to restore it.—Chambers' Journal.

Origin of Crescent Bread.

The origin of the Viennese bread shaped like a crescent, which is found in most places on the continent, dates back to the time when the Austrian capital was being besieged by the Turks under the terrible Grand Vizier Kara Mustapha, and as they failed to take the city by assault they decided to dig a passage under the walls and so penetrate into the town. In the daytime the noise of the siege made the sound of the tunneling inaudible, and at nighttime the defenders of the place were asleep, all but the sentries and the bakers. It was the bakers who, as they baked the bread for the garrison, heard the pickaxes of the miners coming nearer and nearer and gave the alarm. In the fighting the Bakers' association took their share with the utmost bravery, and as a reward for their services the emperor gave them permission to make a special cake shaped like the Turkish crescent.—London Sketch.

Once a Nest of Pirates.

Lundy, in the Bristol channel, is an island where one may see an earthquake at any time. There is nothing alarming about these "earthquakes," however. They are simply certain curious crevasses in the west of the island, which the local people call by that name. Lundy in former centuries was a notorious nest of pirates. In King Henry III.'s time William de Marisco, a traitor to the king, built a castle there and set up as an early Captain Kidd. And so it went on through the centuries until in the middle of the eighteenth Thomas Benson, a Barnstable merchant, who was then lessee of the island, was convicted of piracy and smuggling and expelled. He had a contract for carrying convicts to the American colonies and used quietly to land them on Lundy and use their labor there.

The Nine In the Calendar.

The figure 9, which came into the calendar on Jan. 1, 1889, will stay with us 111 years from that date, or until Dec. 31, 1999. No other figure has ever had such a long consecutive run, and the 9 itself has only once before been in a race which lasted over a century—that in which it continuously figured from Jan. 1, 880, until Dec. 31, 999, a period of 111 years. The figures 3 and 7 occasionally fall into odd combinations, but neither of them has ever yet served for a longer period than 100 consecutive years in our calendar since the present mode of calculating time was established. It is also clear that from their relative positions among the numerals it is an impossibility for either of them to appear in date reckonings continuously for a longer period than a century.

Business Methods.

Great numbers of vast fortunes in this country have been and are being built up on the very ignorance of the masses in regard to business methods. The schemers bank on it that it is easy to swindle people who do not know how to protect their property. They thrive on the ignorance of their fellows. They know that a shrewd advertisement, a cunningly worded circular, a hypnotic appeal, will bring the hard earnings of these unsuspecting people out of hiding places into their own coffers.—Success Magazine.

Slovenliness In Speech.

Do not drift into careless habits of speech. Slang, which is slovenliness in speech, is as contemptible as slovenliness in dress. Many people use slang because they are too lazy to think of proper forms for the expression of thought. The clothing of our minds certainly ought to be regarded before that of our bodies.

Killed in a Family Feud.

A dispatch from Wellington, I. T., says that Reuben Kirby is dying with bullet wounds through his body at his home, near Christie, in the Cherokee Nation, and Pleasant Hubbard and Ernest Hubbard, brothers, are dead as the result of a feud that has existed for sometime. The killing took place at the home of Kirby Saturday afternoon.

Last Thursday Will Reeves and Frank Kirby, a brother of Reuben, got into an altercation and there was a shooting bee, but no one was killed, though it is understood that Reeves was badly hurt. The Hubbard boys took up the quarrel for Reeves.

Saturday afternoon they rode to Kirby's place and opened fire on Reuben Kirby, probably thinking he was Frank. Kirby darted into the house as soon as they commenced to shoot and grabbed his rifle. Two bullets had already gone through him. He came out the door and dropped Pleasant Hubbard from his horse. Ernest slid off on the opposite side of his horse and Kirby shot through the horse and killed his man on the other side.

There are several families involved in this feud, and it is feared that there will be more bloodshed. There have been many fatal shooting affairs in that section of the country.

Death of Major Bossieux.

Major Cyrus Bossieux, commissionary of subsistence on General Phillips' staff during the war, who has been continuously identified with the military of the State for more than 50 years, died suddenly at his home, in Richmond, last night, while talking with his friends. He had recently returned from the coast, whither he had gone in the interest of his declining health. Major Bossieux was judge advocate general on the court-martial that tried Franklin Sterns and the three French officers, serving with the Federal army, who had entered the Confederate lines. He entered the military service as a member of the Richmond Grays in 1854.
